CAIRO BULLETIN

ABOUT CABINET ORGANS. It may not be generally understood, even by those tolerably well versed in musical arts, that the vast difference in quality of tone developed in the different makes of Cabinet Organs, is owing in a great measure, to the different modes of bending the tongue of the reed, a slight variation in the style of bend making quite a perceptible difference in the quality of tone produced, as well as in the speaking capacity of the reed.

So difficult and peculiar in this department of work as to render it necessary for a person to have a natural gift or tact in handling the delicate tools used, and even then it sometimes requires years of prac-tice to enable one to become proficient in this art.

There are only two or three of the leading makers in this country who understand the application of what is called the new and improved bend in the reed, and among them the house of Simmons & Clough Organ Co., of Detroit, Mich., have made their instruments deservedly popular, and are taking the lead in way of the more desirable improvements, having secured the valuable "Scribner Patent," an application of tubes to reeds, which materially increase the volume of tone. materially increase the volume of tone and at the same time destroy the wirey metalic sound of the reed. This firm also make use of the celebrated "Vox Humana, "or "Fan tremolo," and also the famous "Vox Celeste" stop, the use of which has created such an cutery among older manufacturers, who find it impossible, with their style of bend and voicing to moke a good job of it.

It is comparatively but a brief period since this firm began to make instruments upon a large scale, and offer them to the public at large through dealers.—the home demand having taken their entire production heretofore,—but we are informed that the experience of this house dates back to the year 1850, and it is these years of care-ful study and experiment which combine to make their Organs, in many respects, su-perior to those of other makers.

The musical editor of the Superior (Wis.) 'Times' makes mention of them as follows: "We are impressed with all we read and know of the Simmons & Clough Organ.' Contrary to the practice of many other establishments, this firm have first made a reputation for their noble in-struments, and then advertised them. It s a mystery to us outsiders what they are advertising for, as the demand for these Organs now exceeds the supply. The great demand for them, in fact, has compelled the company to put up a new man-ufactory at a cost of nearly $100,000. There are only three instruments of the cabiret organ class in America that we should feel satisfied in purchasing, and of the three we far prefer the instrument made by Simmons & Clough. It can render all styles of music, from the thunders of church organ dispason to the atrains of a fine military band, or the exquisite tremor of fairy bells. 9-18-tf.

Burlington, Iowa. THE PEOPLE'S STAMP OF VALUE .-- The government indorsement, which legalizes the sale of Plantation Bitters, is not the only stamp affixed to that valuable vegetable tonic. It bears, in addition to that official sanction, the still more valuable stamp of public approbation. This ines-timable voucher of its rare properties as a tonic, corrective and alterative, is of much earlier date than the government creden-tial; for millions of sick persons had pronounced it the grand specific of the age long before congress thought of taxing proprietary medicines. It is unnecessary repeat, in detail, the properties of this wenderful vegetable invigorant. The best reference that can be offered to those who desire the full particulars of its virtues, is the general public. Ask those who have tried it as a remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, billiousness, intermittent fevers, nervous debility, rheumatism, sea sickness, low spirits, and loss of vital power, what Plastation Bitters has done for them, and be goverened by the re-sponse they make to your inquiries.
